Subject: Updates from ICJIA Targeted Violence Prevention Program

Dear Colleagues:

I hope this message finds you well. Moving forward we at the Targeted Violence Prevention Program will be communicating more regularly with partners, collaborators, community leaders, policy-makers, and the broader community about the work we are doing specifically as well as the work of targeted violence prevention more generally. In order for us to do this more effectively we will be leveraging a few newer resources. Please consider joining our email list so that we can keep you updated with timely newsletters with links to news, events, and other useful information on our website, on Facebook, and on website of others doing important work in this area.

Special Presentations: "Hidden Spaces of Hate" by Dr. Peter Simi

On Friday, June 29, 2018 Dr. Peter Simi will be giving two similar presentations in the metro-Chicagoland region.

The first will be in partnership with Loyola University Chicago's School of Social Work and its Center for Criminal Justice Research, Policy and Practice (also co-sponsored by the Muslim Bar Association of Chicago, the Decalogue Society of Lawyers, and the Hispanic Lawyers Association of Illinois).

Date: June 29, 2018

Time: 10am to Noon

Place: Loyola University Chicago - Water Tower Campus, 16 E. Pearson, Schreiber Center (Room 908), Chicago, IL

Registration Link: www.luc.edu/ssw/hiddenspaces (registration is free; there is a fee for CEU credits)(MCLE applied for)

The second presentation is later that evening in Elgin, IL. This second presentation is co-sponsored by Elgin City of Peace, Elgin Community College's MAGIC, Gail Borden Public Library, Elgin Human Relations Commission, and the Muslim Bar Association of Chicago.

Date: June 29, 2018

Time: 6pm - 8pm

Place: The Centre of Elgin - Heritage Ballroom, 100 Symphony Way, Elgin, IL 60120

No Registration Required/Free and Open to the Public/No CEUs

There are flyers for both events attached to this email. Please share them with people whom you think may be interested.

Promoting a Public Health Approach to Preventing Targeted Violence

Last week I had the opportunity and privilege of presenting a workshop at the Illinois Department of Public Health annual conference on early intervention efforts to prevent Targeted violence. We had at least 100 participants. Most of the participants were from health systems across the state. The conversation and exchange of ideas lasted nearly 3 hours, and as a result of this engagement we were able to reach new community stakeholders with whom we can continue building greater awareness, partnerships, and eventually, prevention and early intervention programming.

National Governors Association Policy Academy on Preventing Targeted Violence

In April ICJIA TVPP was selected through a competitive grant application process to participate in the National Governors Association Policy Academy on Preventing Targeted Violence. Our team consists of policy and programming leaders in state and local government, academia and the NGO community. We will use the policy academy to focus on the the barriers to services that exist at the community level for individuals who voluntarily seek help to alleviate problems that may otherwise contribute to an increased risk of engaging in violence. This strategic thinking and planning effort will build on the focus group data collected as part of our project to build and deliver a training for community members on how to intervene as a gatekeeper.

Feedback and Collaboration Requested

We know that many of you are also very concerned about preventing targeted violence. We need your feedback on our work. We also need partners at the grassroots throughout Illinois with whom to partner. Through more regular communications (please sign up for our email list!) we hope to foster both - more feedback and greater collaboration.

Jamil,

Salaam. I hope this email finds you well. I emailed you a week or two ago asking about the CPD official from your Hate Crimes Division. I would like very much to be connected with him. I gave him my business card, but he didn't have any of his on him.

Can you help me connect with him soon please?

Thanks!

Asalamualakum Afeef,

I have attached a invitation flyer for our "Preparing for Ramadan" Muslim Community Meeting here in the 17th District Station.

As we did in last years meeting, we will cover all the important and relevant crime and safety issues that we Muslims face every year during the holy month. We will also open the floor to any questions, concerns or issues in regards to current or foreseeable challenges this upcoming Ramadan as well.

Also, in Response to the "Punish a Muslim Day" flyer that has been circulating I have also booked a Guest Speaker from the Chicago Police Departments Civil Rights Unit to discuss the topic of Hate Crimes.

We also have a new Commander here in 17th District. This will be the first Muslim community meeting the new Commander will be taking part in. Therefore, this is a great opportunity to introduce ourselves and show how much the special programs and services provided for our community is appreciated and would like them to continue. A good turn out will leave a lasting impression for all future program and service requests so please do your best to attend and spread the word. Food will be provided inshaAllah.

Details are on the flyer. Any questions please do not hesitate to reach out.

Subject: [External] Muslim Community Meeting

Asalamualakum Afeef,

I have attached a invitation flyer for our "Preparing for Ramadan" Muslim Community Meeting here in the 17th District Station.

As we did in last years meeting, we will cover all the important and relevant crime and safety issues that we Muslims face every year during the holy month. We will also open the floor to any questions, concerns or issues in regards to current or foreseeable challenges this upcoming Ramadan as well.

Also, in Response to the "Punish a Muslim Day" flyer that has been circulating I have also booked a Guest Speaker from the Chicago Police Departments Civil Rights Unit to discuss the topic of Hate Crimes.

We also have a new Commander here in 17th District. This will be the first Muslim community meeting the new Commander will be taking part in. Therefore, this is a great opportunity to introduce ourselves and show how much the special programs and services provided for our community is appreciated and would like them to continue. A good turn out will leave a lasting impression for all future program and service requests so please do your best to attend and spread the word. Food will be provided inshaAllah.

Details are on the flyer. Any questions please do not hesitate to reach out.

Salam,

Police Officer Jamil Askar

Subject: Engaged Bystander-Gatekeeper Training Grant - Final Approval Received This Morning from DHS/FEMA

Attachments: Engaged_Bystander+Gatekeeper_Training_Proposal_Narrative.FINAL.August2016.pdf

Good morning. Our office received word this morning that our grant proposal has been approved officially.

The performance period will be 2 years beginning 8/1/17.

I am out of the office today through Monday in observance of the end of Ramadan and the Eid al Fitr holiday, but I wanted to share this important bit of news with you all ASAP. I just learned of it this morning.

I'm looking forward to working with you all in this important project. I believe we can make an important contribution to ideologically inspired targeted violence prevention in a way that safeguards our communities and our individual civil liberties.

I will be reviewing the legal documents with my colleagues next week, and then I propose that we set up a time to meet and review the proposal in detail, discuss how your involvement is requested/needed, answer your questions, and discuss any formal documentation you would like (memorandum of understanding, etc) to provide you with clarity and assurances about your contributions to this work.

Attached is a copy of the final grant proposal that was submitted last summer.

Sincerely,

Junaid M. Afeef, J.D.

Dear Beth,

Good morning and happy new year! We were successful in getting a CVE grant to build the bystander-gatekeeper training, and we did include Chicago as one of our three pilot communities in the proposal. We chose Albany Park specifically, because it had at least one institution that was willing to be involved. I've been in touch with Chris Kennedy too. I wanted to let you know. I will be looking to you for help in connecting with high schools, community colleges and universities as we begin the work. The best way to reach me is by cell phone and via email. Thanks Beth.

Subject: Fw: [External] New ICSR Report: Criminal Pasts, Terrorist Futures: European Jihadists and the New Crime-Terror Nexus

Jamil,

Salaam. I hope this email finds you well. I wanted to share with you a new report from Europe that may interest you. It discusses the connection between crime and terrorism in Europe.

I know America does not have the same challenges with terrorism that Europe does, and I hope we never do.

It is still useful to learn from their experiences in my opinion.

Thanks!

Subject: [External] New ICSR Report: Criminal Pasts, Terrorist Futures: European Jihadists and the New Crime-Terror

Nexus

New ICSR Report: Criminal Pasts, Terrorist Futures: European Jihadists and the New Crime-Terror Nexus

ICSR is today releasing its new study on European jihadists and the increasing convergence between criminal and jihadist milieus, which challenges long-held assumptions about radicalization, recruitment, and how to counter terrorism.

The full report is available here.

Coverage of the report is available here and here.

The presence of former criminals in terrorist groups is neither new nor unprecedented. But with Islamic State and the ongoing mobilisation of European jihadists, the phenomenon has become more pronounced, more visible, and more relevant to the ways in which jihadist groups operate. In many European countries, the majority of jihadist foreign fighters are former criminals.

The purpose of this new report is to describe the nature and dynamics of the crime-terror nexus, and understand what it means. To do so, a multi-lingual team of ICSR researchers compiled a database containing the profiles of 79 recent European jihadists with criminal pasts.

What we have found is not the merging of criminals and terrorists as organisations but of their social networks, environments, or milieus. Criminal and terrorist groups have come to recruit from the same pool of people, creating (often unintended) synergies and overlaps that have consequences for how individuals radicalise and operate. This is what we call the new crime terror nexus.

Radicalisation and Recruitment

The profiles and pathways in our database suggest that the jihadist narrative – as articulated by the Islamic State – is surprisingly well-aligned with the personal needs and desires of criminals, and that it can be used to condone as well as curtail the continued involvement in crime.

For up to ten of the individuals in our database, we found evidence for what we termed the ‘redemption narrative’: jihadism offered redemption for crime while satisfying the personal needs and desires that led them to become involved in it, making the ‘jump’ from criminality to terrorism smaller than is commonly perceived.

Prisons

Fifty-seven per cent of the individuals in our database (45 out of 79 profiles) had been incarcerated prior to their radicalisation, with sentences ranging from one month to over ten years, for various offences from petty to violent crime. More significantly, at least 27 per cent of those who spent time in prison (12 out of 45 profiles) radicalised there, although the process often continued and intensified after their release.

Our database highlights different ways in which prisons matter: (1) they are places of vulnerability in which extremists can find plenty of ‘angry young men’ who are ‘ripe’ for radicalisation; (2) they bring together criminals and terrorists, and therefore create opportunities for networking and ‘skills transfers’; and (3) they often leave inmates with few opportunities to reintegrate into society.

‘Skills Transfers’

There are many ‘skills’ that terrorists with criminal pasts may have developed. In particular: (1) individuals with a criminal past tend to have easier access to weapons; (2) they are adept at staying ‘under the radar’ and planning discreet logistics; and (3) their familiarity with violence lowers their (psychological) threshold for becoming involved in terrorist acts.

Financing

Jihadists not only condone the use of ‘ordinary’ criminality to raise funds, they have argued that doing so is the ideologically correct way of waging ‘jihad’ in the ‘lands of war’. Combined with large numbers of former criminals in their ranks, this will make financing attacks through crime not only possible and legitimate but, increasingly, their first choice.

Already, up to 40 per cent of terrorist plots in Europe are at least part-financed through ‘petty crime’, especially drug-dealing, theft, robberies, the sale of counterfeit goods, loan fraud, and burglaries. Based on our database, jihadists tend to continue doing what they are familiar with, which means that terrorist financing by criminal means will become more important as the number of former criminals is increasing.

Recommendations

Re-thinking radicalisation: The emergence of the new crime-terror nexus and its associated dynamics should compel researchers, analysts, and policymakers to re-think long-held ideas about how terror, crime, and radicalisation have to be understood. Being pious is no guarantee that criminal behaviour has stopped, while acting like a ‘gangster’ does not preclude involvement in terrorism.

Targeting ALL streams of financing: Countering terrorist finance needs to be broadened beyond the banking system to counter all sources of funding, including small-scale and ‘petty crime’, such as drug dealing, theft, robberies, and the trade in counterfeit goods. Not only will doing so help to counter terrorist funding, but also reduce ‘ordinary’ crimes and enable law enforcement agencies to operate a so-called ‘Al Capone approach’. Data sharing: Just like the lines between crime and terrorism have become blurred, relevant agencies need to break down institutional silos and become more effective at sharing relevant information across departments and ‘disciplines’. Counter-terrorism, customs, intelligence services, criminal police, and even outside actors need to share information, conduct joint training, and participate in early warning systems.

New partnerships: More important than before are relationships with civil society and local authorities who know more about communities, local dynamics and relationships, than law enforcement and the intelligence agencies. Another potentially valuable tool are public-private partnerships, because businesses are affected by many of the crimes described in this report, and – in addition to wanting to be seen as good ‘citizens’ – they typically have a commercial interest in countering smuggling, fraud, or the trade in counterfeit goods.

Subject: Out of Office: 9/3/16 through 9/19/16 | Thank You!

Dear Colleagues:

Good morning! I am leaving tomorrow on a trip overseas and will not have access to email or voicemail until I return to the office on 9/20/16.

My wife and I are taking a trip to Mecca, Saudi Arabia to perform a religious pilgrimage. I've been to Saudi Arabia before, but not to perform the Hajj (click here for a good/brief description of the Hajj from the BBC:

http://www.bbc.co.uk/religion/religions/islam/practices/hajj_1.shtml if you are curious to know what it's like from a non-religious website).

I do not proselytize, and I do not intend to do so here. But those who know me well know that it is my personal convictions, strongly influenced by my personal religious views, that drive my work. And it is that work - preventing violence and protecting people - that we have in common. I am grateful to each of you for helping me; each in an important and different capacity. The purpose of this email is to thank you before I leave.

I look forward to getting back in a few weeks and being even more motivated to do this work than I am now. I will be available today by email and cell phone. After today though, I will be unavailable until 9/20/16. If you need anything from me, please call or email today.

Sincerely,

Junaid

Subject: Out of Office: 9/3/16 through 9/19/16 | Thank You!

Dear Colleagues:

Good morning! I am leaving tomorrow on a trip overseas and will not have access to email or voicemail until I return to the office on 9/20/16.

My wife and I are taking a trip to Mecca, Saudi Arabia to perform a religious pilgrimage. I've been to Saudi Arabia before, but not to perform the Hajj (click here for a good/brief description of the Hajj from the BBC:

http://www.bbc.co.uk/religion/religions/islam/practices/hajj_1.shtml if you are curious to know what it's like from a non-religious website).

I do not proselytize, and I do not intend to do so here. But those who know me well know that it is my personal convictions, strongly influenced by my personal religious views, that drive my work. And it is that work - preventing violence and protecting people - that we have in common. I am grateful to each of you for helping me; each in an important and different capacity. The purpose of this email is to thank you before I leave.

I look forward to getting back in a few weeks and being even more motivated to do this work than I am now. I will be available today by email and cell phone. After today though, I will be unavailable until 9/20/16. If you need anything from me, please call or email today.

Sincerely,
Junaid

Dear Officer Askar,

Hello! I would be grateful for the opportunity to speak with you about the project I'm working on. My cell # is 847-370-3297. I can make myself available during, before, and after business hours and on weekends. We can find a time that works best for both of us and hopefully connect soon. This email address and my cell phone are the best ways to reach me. I'm going to be out of the office the rest of this week but can arrange for a time to chat if you have some time.

Thanks!

Junaid,

I hope this finds you well. I am sending this email as promised and making introduction to Officer Askar of the 17th district . Also copied is his Commander.

I just spoke to Officer Askar and gave him a bit of background on your office with the State and our joint workings. Officer Askar is assigned to patrol duties, so he does not have a blackberry or other device for his dept. Email but he said he would check on occasion. I believe he can be of assistance in making some community introductions. Thank you all.

The individual I connected with (I met him through the DHS CRCL roundtables) is a community leader in the Albany Park neighborhood. If the community organization is amenable, then I noted that there are some colleges/universities in that area (North Park and Northeastern). Do you have any contacts there? It would be valuable to have the support of some local colleges.

Dear Larry, Chris, and Beth:

Good morning. I hope this email finds you all well. I would like to include a neighborhood in Chicago for the piloting of the bystander training that we proposes to develop and roll-out using the Homeland Security CVE grant. However, I have not been able to identify community-based, non-law enforcement entities that are prepared to partner with us. Please let me know if you have relationships with community leaders who may be willing to partner with us. I've been out of town since Sunday, so I apologize Larry for not returning your telephone call sooner.

Dear Larry, Chris, and Beth:

Good morning. I hope this email finds you all well. I would like to include a neighborhood in Chicago for the piloting of the bystander training that we proposes to develop and roll-out using the Homeland Security CVE grant. However, I have not been able to identify community-based, non-law enforcement entities that are prepared to partner with us. Please let me know if you have relationships with community leaders who may be willing to partner with us. I've been out of town since Sunday, so I apologize Larry for not returning your telephone call sooner.

Thanks.

Thanks, Junaid. Because I'm not "out there" much, I don't personally know of a community-based or faith-based organization that might be interested, so I'm hoping Commander Kennedy or Beth have a recommendation.

Chris and Beth, if either of you want me to do anything, reach out to anyone else on this question, I'll be glad to help any way I can.

Subject: CVE Needs Analysis Focus Group | Monday, 8/1/16 | 1:30pm to 3:00pm

Dear Colleagues:

Good morning! Thank you for agreeing to participate in the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority's focus group on countering violent extremism. I look forward to seeing you on Monday afternoon.

Date: Monday, 8/1/16

Time: 1:30pm to 3:00pm

Place: Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority, 300 W. Adams Street, Suite 200, Chicago, IL 60606

The purpose of this focus group is to assist ICJIA's Targeted Violence Prevention Program in developing a needs analysis for countering violent extremism programming in Illinois. You are participating in a focus group of state and local units of government (from state agencies, to county level government and municipal level commissions). Your panel includes representatives with expertise in public health, human rights and civil rights, law enforcement, mental health, and public safety. In addition to this focus group, we are also convening a focus group of community members (drawn from various faith communities and Illinois-based not-for-profit organizations).

The needs analysis drafted by ICJIA will be based on information collected from focus groups and a review of the research literature on violent extremism and related research. ICJIA's needs analysis will eventually be published, but prior to its publication, your organizations will have access to it for use and citation in your Homeland Security FY2016 CVE grant application should you decide to pursue CVE funding.

The Targeted Violence Prevention Program (www.illinoistvpp.org) is working to help build and sustain community-level programs to prevent youth and others from becoming radicalized to violence by violent and hateful ideologies promoted by a wide range of extremist groups and movements such as neo-Nazis, Daesh, sovereign citizen movements, skinheads, and others. Our program pursues prevention of ideologically inspired targeted violence (the federal government uses the term "violent extremism") using a public health approach.

Providing the forthcoming needs analysis is one example of how we are working to help Illinois residents. Your participation is invaluable in this effort. Thank you.

If you have questions about TVPP please visit our website (www.illinoistvpp.org), and then please reach out to me. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Junaid M. Afeef

Dear Jadine,

Good morning. It's a pleasure meeting you via email. I hope we can meet in person at some point as well.

The Viral Peace Training (below) is a pilot and we'd love to have a few young leaders (ages 18-25) from the CPS community participating. We (the collaborative team listed on the invitation below) hope to secure CVE grant funding from Homeland Security to roll it out as a "train the trainer" program in selected communities in Illinois. This week's training is meant to be a pilot for the grant application.

I'm also attaching an overview of the training (it was developed by a DC based think tank focusing on countering violent extremism and has been contracted by the U.S. State Department for delivery to several countries already).

Thanks.

Dear Colleagues:

Good afternoon. On Monday, August 1, 2016 the research department of the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority will be convening a focus group of state and local government representatives to learn about your attitudes and views on programming needs related to countering violent extremism. I will be leading the questioning, with my colleagues taking the lead on data collection and analysis. We will be recording the conversation.

We would like to invite your agency/unit of government to participate.
If you would like to participate, then please contact me directly ASAP to inform me of the person who will be attending. The focus group must number 15 or fewer individuals. We will not be able to allow unregistered individuals to participate.
We will use this focus group, as well as others being conducted, to develop a needs analysis. This needs analysis will be used to help guide us and any of your organizations which may seek funding from the U.S.
Department of Homeland Security's FY2016 CVE Grant Program

LOCATION: Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority
300 W. Adams Street, Suite 200
Chicago, IL 60606

DATE: Monday, August 1, 2016

TIME: 1:30PM to 3:00PM (please arrive promptly before 1:30pm; late arrivals may not be allowed to participate)

CONTACT: Junaid M. Afeef, Director, ICJIA Targeted Violence Prevention Program

We will accept RSVPs on a rolling basis until we reach capacity, however, we may take later RSVPs over earlier ones in order to maintain a diverse group.

Your help in this is greatly appreciated. Thank you very much. I look forward to hearing from you very soon!

Sincerely,

Subject: Invitation: Focus Group for CVE Programming Needs Analysis | 8/1/16 | 1:30pm to 3:00pm

Dear Colleagues:

Good afternoon. On Monday, August 1, 2016 the research department of the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority will be convening a focus group of state and local government representatives to learn about your attitudes and views on programming needs related to countering violent extremism. I will be leading the questioning, with my colleagues taking the lead on data collection and analysis. We will be recording the conversation.

We would like to invite your agency/unit of government to participate.

If you would like to participate, then please contact me directly ASAP to inform me of the person who will be attending. The focus group must number 15 or fewer individuals. We will not be able to allow unregistered individuals to participate.

We will use this focus group, as well as others being conducted, to develop a needs analysis. This needs analysis will be used to help guide us and any of your organizations which may seek funding from the U.S.

Department of Homeland Security's FY2016 CVE Grant Program

LOCATION: Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority
300 W. Adams Street, Suite 200
Chicago, IL 60606

DATE: Monday, August 1, 2016

TIME: 1:30PM to 3:00PM (please arrive promptly before 1:30pm; late arrivals may not be allowed to participate)

CONTACT: Junaid M. Afeef, Director, ICJIA Targeted Violence Prevention Program

We will accept RSVPs on a rolling basis until we reach capacity, however, we may take later RSVPs over earlier ones in order to maintain a diverse group.

Your help in this is greatly appreciated. Thank you very much. I look forward to hearing from you very soon!

Sincerely,

Junaid M. Afeef

Dear Chris and Beth:

Hope all is well. Any chance you could participate in a focus group at my office on 8/1 as part of a needs analysis to determine what our Illinois community needs vis-a-vis services and resources to help prevent individuals from becoming engaged in ideologically inspired targeted violence?

Thanks.

Subject: DHS FY2016 CVE Grant Program - Needs Analysis | Focus Group

Dear Friends and Colleagues:

Good afternoon. ICJIA's research department will be convening a focus group very soon (date and time to be announced) at our office on the needs within the community vis-à-vis programs to prevent ideologically inspired targeted violence/violent extremism. We will ask various community partners and organizations to participate. We will need to limit the size of the focus group so more than one representative from a particular organization may not be allowed.

We will use this focus group and a review of the literature to develop a needs analysis to be used for the CVE grant that was announced on July 6. The needs analysis that our research department develops will be available to our partners who are pursuing grant funding under the DHS CVE grant program and help us with the focus group.

As you know, the grant application requires that you have a needs analysis. This is something that we as a state can address together through the expertise at the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority for the benefit of all Illinoisans.

Not all of you are applying for a grant, but many of you have expressed both a concern about this form of violence, and about the need to find ways to prevent it. Your participation will be helpful to those who are applying for funding that can be a benefit to all of us.

Please stay tuned for more information, and please contact me directly with your questions or concerns.

Thanks!

Sincerely,

Junaid

Dear Beth,

Hi! It was a pleasure seeing you last Thursday. Thank you for your comments and active discussion during the TVPP presentation.

I wanted to follow up with you because you were interested in the bystander education training. Would you be interested in having a conversation with us at ICJIA about possible collaboration in this area? Megan Alderden is copied on this email. Megan and I have done some work on bystander education and what that training may look like, and it would be helpful to me to include her in our discussions. Please let me know if you'd like to connect. Thanks.

Dear Beth,

Hi! It was a pleasure seeing you last Thursday. Thank you for your comments and active discussion during the TVPP presentation.

I wanted to follow up with you because you were interested in the bystander education training. Would you be interested in having a conversation with us at ICJIA about possible collaboration in this area? Megan Alderden is copied on this email. Megan and I have done some work on bystander education and what that training may look like, and it would be helpful to me to include her in our discussions.

Please let me know if you'd like to connect. Thanks.

Chris,

Hi. I apologize for the delayed thank you email! I wrote one up on Monday and it got stuck in my outgoing email.

I enjoyed our conversation and actually wanted to chat with you by phone to talk again soon as I have a few questions that I didn't think to ask on Monday.

Also, I'm attaching Dr. Schanzer's recent report on community policing and CVE. I'd be happy to make an introduction via email if you'd like to connect with David directly.
